STANSTEAD COLLEGE

Message from the Head of School

It is a never-changing law of human nature that as we approach its end, we sum up and review the events of the past year. I suppose that's exactly why we have a Stanstead College yearbook!

After the many arduous trials and tribulations of the pandemic, the year 2021-22 was a welcome and long-awaited return to normal. However, having the chance to return to do the many things that we loved and missed made the "normal" feel kind of "special." Things like the warmth of the sun on an unmasked face, a walk to Traditions or Tim Horton's that involved just a quick sign out, the feeling of a hug instead of an elbow bump, The company of friends at a music or sports event that was alive with energy.

The return to normal gave us the chance to witness and participate in so many special moments including watching our varsity girls soccer and varsity boys rugby teams win ETIAC league and playoff championships; being captivated by a fabulous production of the play "Once Upon a High School"; having our entire school lend a hand to the Town of Stanstead with a community service afternoon; and holding both our year-end prom and homecoming celebrations at their traditional locations. It was a fabulous feeling to be able to go forward in our lives with these small but important blessings assured.

To our graduates of the Class of 2022, we wish you good luck, continued success and much happiness as you venture out towards university and beyond. To use a baseball analogy, you're like a fly ball that send outfielders to the wall with the hope of catching it only to see the ball keep going and going – scoring far beyond the ballpark. That's you!

You've hit a grand slam but you haven't hit a plateau. In fact, you're on the cusp of a tremendous new adventure. As Leonardo da Vinci said, "When you put your hand in the flowing water, you touch the last of what had gone before and the first of what is to come." And what is to come are perhaps the most exciting years of your lives.

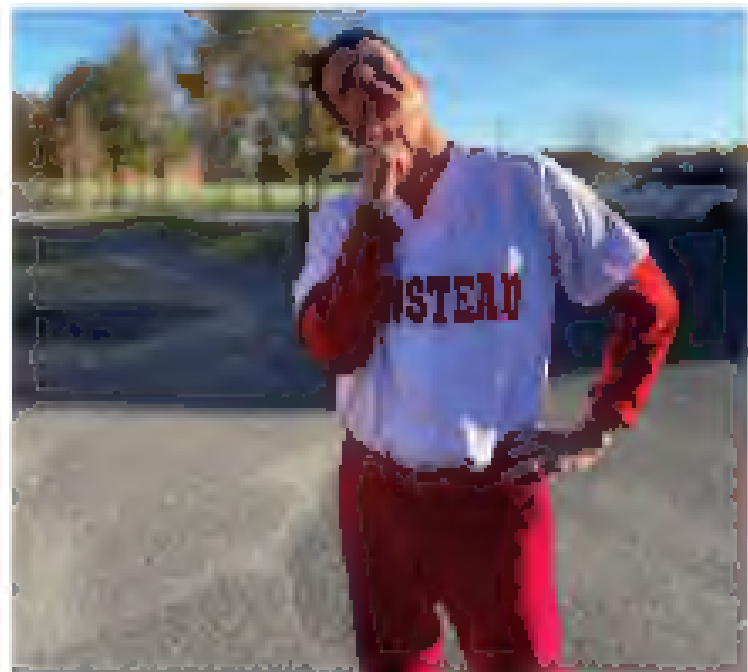

Keep up the great work and keep moving forward. You've come a long way, learned a great deal and now you're fully ready for the next step. You'll continue to grow, develop and change. As you do, you'll find new passions, make new friends, take on new challenges and carve out new definitions of self, community and relationships. And remember, you're actually at your best when you're trusting your instincts and doing what you feel is best.

And on that note, I'll leave you with one final bit of baseball advice from the poet Wendy Cope:

Enjoy your talents. Have your fling.
The seasons change. The years advance.
Watch the ball and do your thing...
And don't let anyone mess with your swing!

Good luck and best wishes.

Messages from the Head Prefects

Delivered at Stansfeld on June 18, 2022

At the beginning of every learning period, Coach Gerrit shared a statement of the day for the team to ponder, and today I want to share one of my favourites with you.

"Everything is temporary."

And she said: "Whether this is a good or bad thing for you all, nothing lasts forever, try to keep that in mind."

This rather obvious statement struck me more than you might expect. As I stood still on our lacrosse field, a rush of emotions took me over at a thousand miles per hour, emotions that rapidly melted into a visual sequence of three years' worth of memories playing like a movie in my mind. I was dumbfounded. How could such a simple statement turn into an ultimate realisation?

The truth is that in my short time at Stansfeld College, I was gifted an incredible experience in which I made friendships and memories that would last me a lifetime. Granted that good things come with time, I went through lots of moments of stress, anger and fatigue as well. Just like this in a blink of an eye, the best and worst of times interlocked into one chain to make what I call THE Stansfeld Experience. And that, it's that temporary roller coaster of emotions you go through at boarding school that tickles your skin so you're prepared for what's to come. And when Coach Gerrit shared this statement, it made me think of all the things that shouldn't be left unsaid.

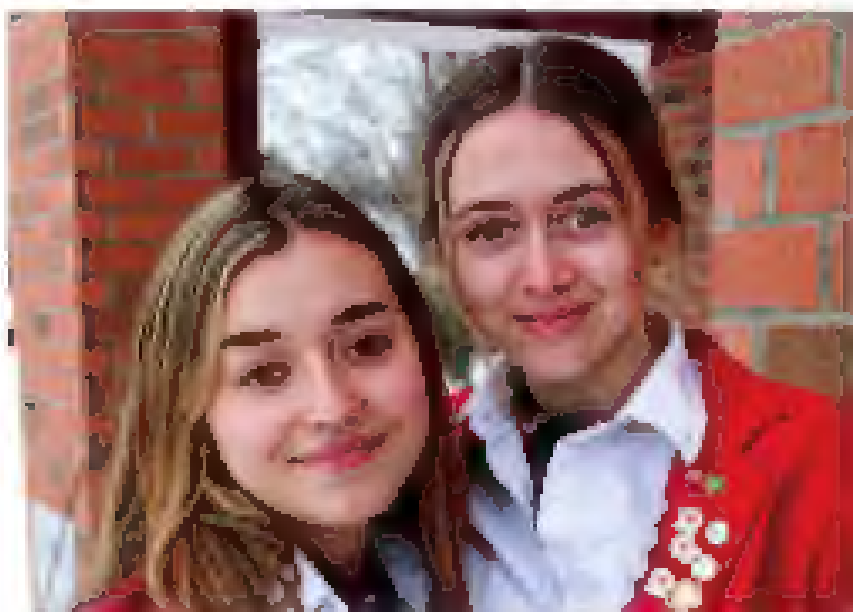

As high school students we get caught up in the everyday life. We forget to take up all the sticky and sometimes how valuable its receipt is, how valuable we are. This thing that we call "the big picture" is in fact really small. Our life is short. We are small. Have I been known that as particular as Stansfeld College is, the nature different to other high schools is even more so. It's custom drama, its discipline rigorous and as the expression depicts we enjoy "pushing gas on the fire."

What we tend to forget is that we make our time on such actions. We waste our time being outside when the weather is perfect. We waste our time when we put ourselves from getting to know one another. We waste our time simply because we forget we run out of it. The beauty (and of us) is that we are all different and those differences are the indispensable lessons we teach each other. This is why we should value ourselves, value our differences, and love ourselves for them because without each knowing it, we are all beautiful and students. Through every interaction you've had at Stansfeld College, you've learned something. Grander or lesser and without even knowing it, the place and its people have taught you a life's worth of lessons.

From then you have learned what to them you have brought the wonderful people that you are. To those who share this last day with me, I hope you did make your experiences terrific to the best it could be and if you didn't, remember the statement while taking on future adventures.

There is a point to be made here and that point is that life is too short. We shouldn't be sad to be enjoyed, and it's way too short to not be made memorable. A few days ago, I called Mrs. Hession for a sign-out slip and naturally she asked me where I was headed. I explained that I had these beloved objects I needed to return. As I walked around campus I found myself having things on people's doorsteps. Feeling like I was leaving pieces of my experience. Leaving behind pieces of me. Pieces of them. Pieces of us.

• Go! Go!

When I walked home five years ago, Stansfeld was introduced to me as high school musical but without the singing. I'd say this is pretty accurate. I played in the basketball team and was a part of the school play.

There's one thing that's different, though (the relationships). The greatest gift I have received here is people. Throughout my four years here, I have developed relationships with around 1000 different people from different places. Whether it is the staff and faculty, students, parents or players in several tournaments, we are marked by these encounters. Some of the people you met here you will see in 20-30 years at Homecoming and remember the old days just like many did this past May. Others will still be by your side in 50 years.

Living at a boarding school, you learn a lot about relationships. You learn to create them, keep them healthy, and sometimes you learn how to screw them up. I have screwed up a lot. Four years ago, I was sitting in the audience and Ally Bellow spoke about being an expert at being a Stansfeld student. While I am not sure about being an expert at all aspects of being a boarding school student, I think I can be classified as an expert at relationships at boarding school.

Now, I tend to always perfect at this and let me give you an example. As some of you may know, I go to breakfast each morning with my four best friends at 7:30. I'm not very patient. If Yuen is not there at 7:30, I strongly suggest no group that we leave without her. Lorian, on the other hand, is more patient and believes we should stay. So I leave. Here's one (I don't leave). Don't leave what things are long or tough. Because when you do leave, you give permission to others to bullseye you, and that is the worst thing that can happen to you at boarding school. That was the culture leading your upcoming-unbirthday announcement.

Relationships are essential to our own wellbeing. Whether you get in the health centre and Sarah notices you are feeling down, she instantly asks you if something happened with your friends. When your relationships aren't doing too well, most often you are not doing too well either. Being in such a close environment all the time with so many people surrounding us, it can be overwhelming, but in time, they are your only chance at surviving boarding school. In any type of friendship, both should care for one another and take care for one another. This can be as simple as Luan paying for Micky's and my ice cream as we walked to Traditions after a rough week.

Take this time to call and text your friend during the long summer. Stay in touch with as many people as you can since if you are not coming back, the bonds you created this year will last you a lifetime if you want them to.

While we were in busy this year, some of you might have forgotten to call home sometimes. Speaking from experience, I know some of the moms in the audience today can relate. On your way back home, make sure you thank your parents for giving you this opportunity. Do the same with the other family you made here. Your teachers, advisors, ministers, friends - they are and always will be your family away from home.

Although Stansfeld was described to me as high school musical, I would describe it more as a friend. If Stansfeld was a person, it would be a reasonable one. Stansfeld would be an energetic, kind and a very dramatic person. A person that makes you feel at home but can also become really irritating to hang out with at times. Stansfeld from Saturday night bus lines, sports tournaments, Wednesday half days and All-Campus activities. Whoever meets Stansfeld, usually becomes one of their loyal friends. Thank you Stansfeld for being such a great friend.

For the ones who aren't coming back next year, I would like to leave you with something my dad always tells me before leaving a place: "You have to leave in order to be able to come back" and I hope you will come back.

I remember being devastated when my friends 5 year friend told me I would lose all the friendships I made here. Then Mr. Van Dyke came to see me. He told me something I will never forget. Now I am standing here today and realizing his line for the first time. Remember our time? Don't go and it's over, be happy it happened."

Thank you Stansfeld, always a friend.

• Remember! Love them!

All Starband Music Clinic
Week Membership $100 for 12 weeks of guitar and Future Plans: learn to play and become a guitar technician at the same time
What has caused the interest in the guitar?
After learning guitar, my interest in other instruments grew and I love
Special Thanks to my parents for the gift of guitar lessons
We are now moving to the big big guitar world
Thank you for all the help, support and encouragement

Mrs. Camuthers Named Next Head of School

In March, Mrs. Camuthers was named the next head of school, the first woman to hold the position in the school's 50-year history. She will also be the first French-speaking head since Dr. Charles Flanders in 1893-1908.

Mrs. Camuthers will assume the position at the start of the 2022-23 school year when current head of school Alexander Wells plans to retire.

Mrs. Camuthers began in the Admissions Office in 1995 and was Director of Admissions from 2006 until 2021. In 2010, she was appointed associate head of school, helping to oversee the day-to-day operations in the College. In 2019-20, she served as acting head during Mr. Wells's sabbatical. In addition, she is married to a Stensland College alumnus (Bryan - 88C) and is mother to two alumni (Lyana 2015, Tyler 2020).

Mrs. Camuthers was also the president of the Small Boarding Schools Association for six years, the first Canadian to hold the position.

Spartans Help Team Canada U18 Earn Gold

On January 2, Team Canada secured the gold in the International Ice Hockey Federation (IIHF) World U18 Championship in Moscow. Spartans Karol Prohorka and Alexa Allen were key players in Canada's 3-2 win over the United States.

Opening the scoring for Team Canada was none other than our very own Alexa Allen. Just five minutes into the game, Alexa parked herself in front of the net on the power play. Ava Murphy took a shot from the blue line that was deflected not once, but twice. Alexa had the final say by being Canada's goal lead over USA.

Late in the second period, Canada had an odd man rush. Karol was able to score, the third of four goals that the gold-medal Americans who kept the home goal in the net. This third goal for Canada would ultimately prove to be the game-winner, with USA fighting back to make it 3-2 for Canada at the end of the first half.

The pair not only had outstanding gold medal games but their presence was felt throughout the whole tournament, each coming out with a plus-minus of +3. Alexa grabbed 6 points (G 4A), while Karol had 4 points (G 3A). In the series final game against Finland, Karol scored the game winner and received the Player for the Game for Canada.

Another notable performance was from Grade 12 varsity girls' player Jenna Voigt Weisinger. For Team Germany, she appeared in all 4 games and scored one goal in the 2-4 loss against Czech Republic. Germany ended the tournament in last place.

OPENING WEEK

Students returned to Stanstead College on opening day with a record number of 210 students.

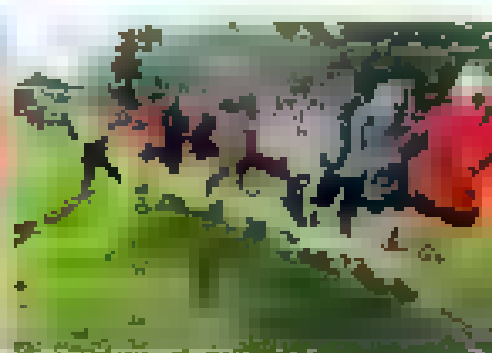

Reinforcing the school's commitment to students is the 4th year class, who were accepted for the 2012-2013 year. They will be the first to see the school's new building, which is a direct result of the previous year's work. Stanstead College has a long history of being a leader in the field of education. The school's 2012-2013 year is a testament to the school's commitment to a full academic and extracurricular program and the school's positive record of health.

Students arrived at Stanstead College on September 20th and spent the first days of the year before new students arrived on Wednesday. Although there were delays throughout the day, a small move-in event was held on Wednesday night. In contrast to the academic and extracurricular activities, the school's health and safety program was also a success.

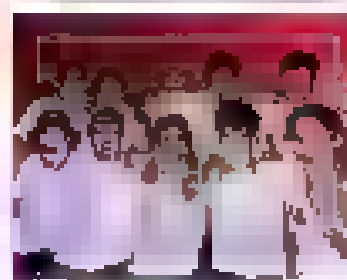

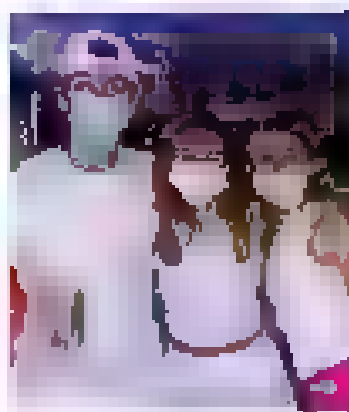

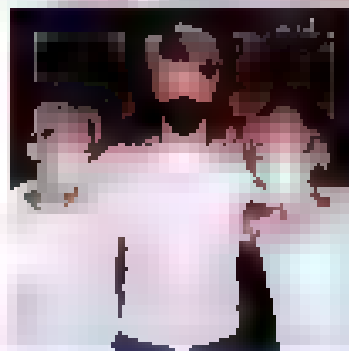

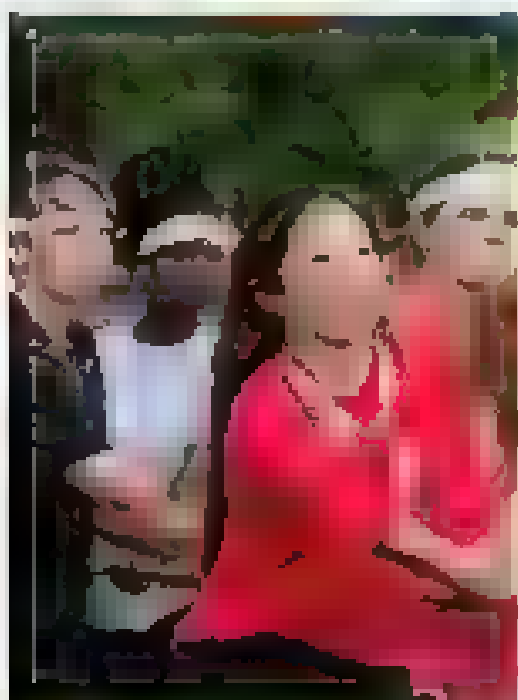

There were many students participating in games and activities to celebrate the school's 100th anniversary.

COVID RETURNS

December 2021

Upon return from a hockey tournament in Quabbin Valley one coach and two girls boys hockey players get positive. The team quarantines in the health center a temporary location in Adams House. Later a member of the varsity girls hockey team tests positive and they quarantine as well in the gym. Ultimately two coaching staff members and six students would test positive. The health center staff undertook the task of testing the entire school community with rapid tests. Because this occurred so close to the end of the term students were given the option of returning home and completing classes online. Grade 7 was a virtual session and conducted online. After-school practices happened as per health policy guidelines were cancelled.

January 2022

With infections from the Omicron variant continuing to surge, the Quabbin girls hockey delays the opening of in-person classes. Started on January 4, classes begin the following week with international student arrival January 4 and following classes from New York, domestic broadband and day students returning on campus January 6 and 7. Sports practices resumed at school but competitions were cancelled. Meal times were staggered to reduce large gatherings and assemblies took place online. With the prevalence and virulence of Omicron, it became clear that it would no longer be if the school would see a case and when protocols were put in place to quarantine and isolate infected. The adjusted strategies either at home or on campus.

February-March 2022

Sports in competition resumed in February. After the break through cases began to increase quickly through the school. At the start of March competition and off campus activities are paused to allow the situation to settle. Thankfully, no one is locally sick.

With the South Center scheduled to be demolished, the traditional outdoor rink was out of consideration. In our basement space were located the rink location to create a temporary rink on the South Water Field. The new rink was the replacement of our Winter Carnival. (See next page.)

SPRING FORMAL

April/May 2022

As we returned from break, we continued in 'live' with COV-2 and the Omicron variant. Our students were allowed to sit where they wished in class. Assemblies returned to the dining hall. By the end of April, the number of cases on campus had been reduced to only a few in a line. By mid-May, mask mandates were lifted for all public places in Quebec, including in schools.

HOMECOMING

On May 14, Homecoming returned to campus after ten long years. The day featured the official opening of the massive Williams Art Center as well as the unveiling of a mural and display in the American Gym celebrating the history of football at Stanford. College also celebrated an exhibition game between Cowen House and Davis House won by Davis in a shootout.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AFTERNOON

On May 16, students and faculty spread out across campus and in the community, including Agave Hill, to dig, weed, clean and spruce up buildings.

ALL-CAMPUS DAY

GRADE 7 PROBABILITY GAMES

As part of Open Math, the students played a game of probability.

HEAD(S) FOR THE DAY

A short auction to raise funds for Ukrainian refugees provided the opportunity to be head for the day, purchased by Mothers' Union and United Methodist churches. The school also brought in a few trees along with chairs for the church service and Menzies' staff and Mr. Gungor.

FAC-PREFECT SOFTBALL

THAT'S THE WAY TO KEEP PLAYING

BIKE TO THE CLIFF

The Grade 8s participated in their science lab course by bicycle. After completing their study of forces, motion and simple machines, they put it to the test with some practical experience on La Joliver Nature Trail all the way to the top of the cliff.

There are a number of ways to get the most out of your car. One way is to get a car that is designed to last. Another way is to get a car that is designed to be easy to maintain. And a third way is to get a car that is designed to be fun to drive. All of these things can help you get the most out of your car. And that's what you want, right? You want to get the most out of your car. So why not get a car that is designed to do just that? A car that is designed to last, to be easy to maintain, and to be fun to drive. That's the kind of car you want. And that's the kind of car that's available at the Ford Motor Company. So why not get a Ford? You'll get the most out of your car. And that's what you want.

Good morning, everyone, I'd like to thank Head of School Mike Wolff for letting me to be here today on this special occasion. To the graduates of the hour, and of course I mean the graduates sitting here today – congratulations! You all should feel as proud of where you are today, as it is a moment that you will never forget – I still think about the feeling that I had on this day 13 years ago. I was so excited for my next steps, but see to leave my home – Stanstead College. Another big shout out and congratulations go to your families. You all have played a big part behind the scenes, and this is such a special day for you all as well. You must feel incredibly proud. Lastly, congratulations to the teachers and staff. As an alum of Stanstead, I know how dedicated you are around the clock and no one can possibly be more excited for this break to begin. I also want to give another shoutout and congratulations to the Canadian Women's U18 Hockey Team for beating Team USA for the gold I heard about a goal and some assists between a few students here today. Let's give them a big round of applause.

The question that kept running through my mind as I was working on writing my challenge for you all today was where can I make the most impact as you approach your next steps. You have a whole lifetime full of exciting and important experiences and lessons ahead. My goal today is to try and impact the steps that you are going to take directly after you leave your home, Stanstead College. From my personal experience, when leaving Stanstead, the most helpful part of that journey was finding a mentor. A mentor is someone who shares their experiences about their own career path, as well as provides guidance, motivation, and at times emotional support.

Families and Stanstead teachers and staff included, can I see a show of hands of who here today has had a mentor that has had an important impact on either your career or personal life?

And about just the graduates, who has a mentor in the room?

So here's the deal. Life can be great and it can also be really really hard. Even though I know that you all can do anything that you set your mind to on your own (and I wish that), I want you to understand that you don't need to face all of your challenges alone.

Let me share a short story with you.

One day a father and son were walking through the forest. There was a big log laying right across the trail. The son looked at his father with determination and pride and said "Dad, do you think that I can move this log?" His father looks at his son and then looks at the log and says, "I think you can, but only if you use all your strength." The son began to push the log as hard as he possibly could letting out all kinds of groans, but the log just wouldn't budge. The son looked at his father with embarrassment and started pushing the log again as hard as he possibly could, groaning and moaning just like before. He looked up at his father and his father said "Go on, use all your strength!" His son was now lying on the ground trying to push the log using the strength of his legs. The father continued to tell his son "use all your strength!" At this point in time, the son was getting impatient. He just couldn't believe that he was not able to use his strength and move the log. So then the son looks at his father discouraged and says to his father, "Dad, I thought you said I could move this log." The father says, "you can but you didn't use all your strength because you never asked for my help!" His son looked back with a grin on his face and they both resumed to push the log off of the trail together.

The point here being is that you are not alone in these next steps. As you all prepare for your journey after Stanstead – your friends, family, and mentors are all here for you – we are your strength. So, my challenge for you today is for each of you to find a mentor to support your next steps after Stanstead. This individual may already be someone that you know – they might be in this very room, in fact, knowing how special the dedicated teachers and staff are at Stanstead College they likely are.

There's one more story that I want to share with you. It's actually that of my own and I'm going to share here how a mentor from Stanstead impacted my journey. I joined Stanstead College at the tail end of Grade 8, heading all the way down south from sunny Ray West, FL. The weather alone was a big (misleading) adjustment. I still remember that I could not excited to join Stanstead that I had, in fact, printed my admissions letter from Joanne Carrollers and hung it at my desk. My friends of course quickly picked on me because of that... P.S. I still have that somewhere, Joanne.

I'll never forget from welcoming everyone here at Stanstead. As soon as you enter campus, you can feel that it is one big family. And, of course, families know everything about one another – My first few years at Stanstead I was very engaged on campus, immediately joining three varsity sports, and practically living in the basketball gym, but I definitely got in my fair share of trouble and there were always eyes on you as it was hard to get away with almost anything here.

Mostly harmless things like pranks, but I can still remember the terrible feeling that I had every time I was called to meet at School Mike Wolff's office. Basically, feeling nervous and that feeling of "Well, you did it again." Every time that I walked into that office, I knew that it was going to be my last (say at Stanstead, but it never was). You see, Mike believed in me and after giving me a handful of chances – I realize now that it was because of that that I started to believe in myself. He was the person who inspired me to become a school administrator and my being who he was helped me realize who I am and who I wanted to be when I grew up – thank you for that, Mike.

I am now the co-founder and COO of Watson Institute, a new university model for social entrepreneurs with a handful of locations around the world. Fortunately, I'm able to work with students on a daily basis and provide the same support to them that Mike has done for me over all of those years. It's my way of paying it forward. Just like Mike will quote for me "I am on call with our Alumni on a regular basis supporting them in their careers forever from. Every few weeks, I get to play basketball with my current students just like Mr. Van Oyle and Mr. Brock did with me. I play soccer with them, just like the peered senior leaders and staff games, most at Watson Institute it's a little different because we don't actually win the games. Regardless of who wins, we worked hard to build a culture at Watson Institute similar to Stanstead College, where everyone feels like it is a family, and in fact it is.

When leaving Stanstead and entering university, I made a mental decision that I needed to turn down and focus on my more thanrigans. Fortunately, I received a lot of support throughout my time at Lynn University, but had thought at the time going into it that I was not going to have my Stanstead College family around me to help. I mean Lynn University is some over 1000 miles away! Well, did I know that that wasn't the case. Mike, Amy, Dugie and others in this room actually visited me at Lynn University down in Boca Raton, FL. And it wouldn't have been a coincidence that Lynn is just three miles to the beach!

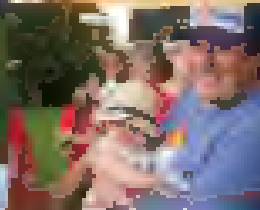

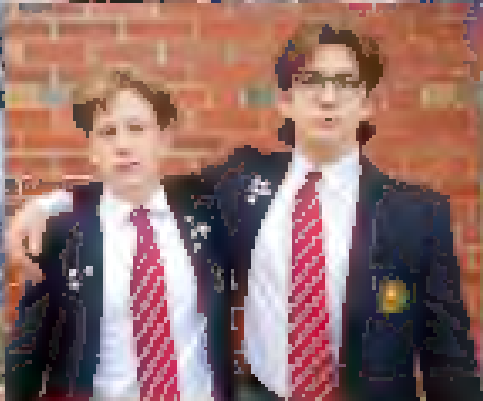

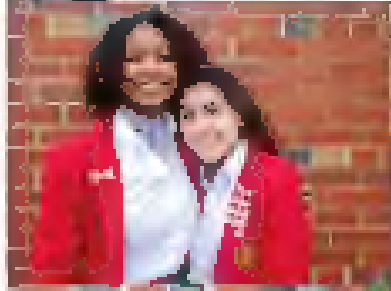

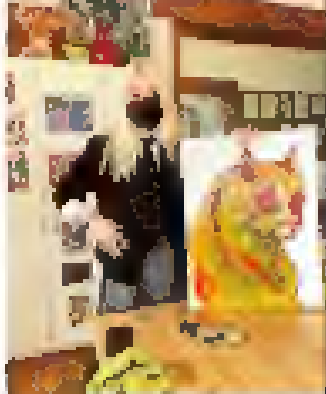

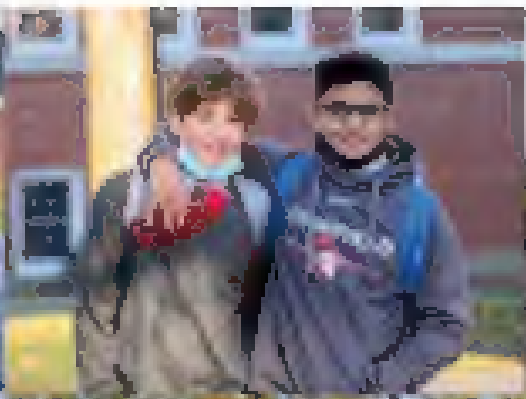

Honestly, I can tell you all these years later that Mike was there standing next to my family at my university graduation where I was selected as the valedictorian speaker, he stood by my side in the aisle as a groomsmen at my wedding in Ray West, FL, and now he, Dugie, and my current boss field regular calls together to help me in my career and to share (but) precious around kidswear in our jobs – that is the power of a mentor.

This leads me to the way back to the beginning. Graduates, as you walk out these doors today, I challenge all of you to find a mentor in your next steps to guide you on your path forward. Sorry Mike, Joanne, Coach Erik, Coach B and others if all 66 of them show up at your door this afternoon, although I know you'd let them in anyway, which is why I told this story. And you can thank me later for all of the future wedding invitations that you will receive.

Grade 8 know how much Stanstead College took the home to you. For the past years you've called your favorite snack here, been on sports teams with all of your best friends, slept (and overslept) in the dorms, and learned valuable lessons that will last a lifetime. The good news is that it is okay, Stanstead College will always be your home just as it is for me all those years later. You never have to truly say bye to it because everyone is still here from when I left. I have this funny and weird feeling that my children will have the same teachers and coaches that I did from my time at Stanstead when they are students!

Congratulations to the Class of 2022 – it is your time, if you feel nervous, don't be. Remember that the rest of the world doesn't know that you are. From hearing a lot of your stories over the past few days, I am confident that you are much further ahead than I was at this time and you are going to go on to do great great things. Cheers to you all playing BIG as you walk out these doors today and thank you and congratulations to you and your families!
